

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND AND EXPERIENCE

Zoë Martin

Zoë Martin graduated from Exeter University with a BSc(Hons) in Occupational Therapy in 1997. Since then she initially worked for a community NHS Trust in central London in both physical and mental health services both within community and hospital settings.

In 2000 Zoë went on to work as a senior therapist at The National Hospital for Neurology and Neurosurgery, Queen Square, gaining specialist skills in managing clients with acute and chronic progressive neuro disability. During this time she led many presentations as part of an internal teaching programme for OT staff and also gained experience teaching externally to health professionals.

In 2006, Zoë took up post as a senior therapist at Heatherwood Hospital, Ascot specialising in the pre-operative education and assessment of clients undergoing elective surgery.

In 2008, Zoë set up her own business ZJM Occupational Therapy consultancy which currently provides OT Neuro rehabilitation for individual clients in the community. Zoë joined Harrison Training this year as an associate trainer.
