

Prof. Steve Park MS, OTR/L, SROT

Steve currently teaches courses/workshops for OT practitioners and interdisciplinary teams throughout the UK. He is a course tutor for the Assessment of Motor and Process Skills (AMPS) in the UK and works with UK services to develop outcome evaluation procedures. He currently is an adjunct professor at the School of Occupational Therapy, Pacific University, Forest Grove, Oregon, USA, where he teaches courses in adulthood, ageing, rehabilitation, research and professional reasoning. He has works as a research occupational therapist in the UK and his special area of interest are the environment, research, adult rehabilitation gerontology leisure and the evaluation of client centred outcomes. He obtained his master's degree in 1993 from Gary Kielhofner's OT programme at the University of Illinois at Chicago, USA and has since undertaken research, published articles and written textbook chapters.